

ENCHANTING LIFE UNLEASHED

THE LUNAR ALIGNMENT SYSTEM • STEP ONE

The Lunar Alignment Quick Start Guide.

a guide for the modern strategist

An orientation to the 28-day cycle. The structure that holds when motivation drops.

WHY YOU'RE READING THIS

Most planning systems fail. Here's why.

You've tried them. The 90-day reset. The new year resolution. The 5 AM routine. The Sunday planning session. Every system promises consistency. Every one collapses around week three.

It isn't a willpower problem.

Traditional planning runs on a flat calendar. It assumes you have the same energy, focus, and capacity every day for a month. You don't. Nobody does. Your body operates on rhythm — not a grid.

When you push the same effort daily, you burn out. When you crash, you start over. When you start over, you lose the compound. Six months in, you're exhausted and back where you began.

Cycles work differently. A 28-day cycle has four distinct movements — plant, build, evaluate, release — each with a different job.

You're not asked to peak every day. You're asked to do the right work in the right phase.

You don't start over. You start the next cycle. The compound holds.

This guide is the orientation. The Lunar Alignment System is what makes it stick.

HOW TO USE THIS GUIDE

Eight phases. One job each.

Each phase has a clear job, a one-line action, and a mini ritual (optional — rituals support the work, they don't replace it).

Read the whole thing once. Come back to the phase you're currently in. Run that section. Repeat next cycle. Build the compound.

The action step is the work. Everything else is support.

THE RULE

Don't run the whole guide every cycle. Run the phase you're in. Do the action. Skip the ritual if it doesn't serve. Come back when the moon does. The cycle keeps moving whether you're tracking or not — your job is to align with it, not perform it.

You're not behind. You're at whatever phase the moon is in tonight. Start there.

The next new moon is in your weather app. Open it now. Note the date. That's your starting line.

PHASE ONE

• New Moon.

BEGIN • SEED • INTEND

The cycle starts here. Dark moon. No light yet, no momentum yet. Your only job is to name what you're committing to for the next 28 days.

Not five things. One.

THE ACTION

Write one specific commitment for this cycle. Present-tense, observable, achievable in 28 days. Not "I want to feel better." Try: "I close the laptop at 6 PM on weeknights."

MINI RITUAL

Optional. The action does the work; this just supports it.

Two minutes of quiet. Write the commitment on paper. Read it once. Put it where you'll see it daily.

JOURNAL PROMPT

What am I committing to this cycle?

PHASE TWO

Waxing Crescent.

MOVE • REACH • START

First reps. The intention you set at the new moon needs an action today. Not when you're ready. Today.

The waxing crescent doesn't wait for full light to start showing up. Neither do you.

THE ACTION

Identify one small action toward your commitment. Do it before the day ends. Don't optimize. Don't perfect. Just complete it.

MINI RITUAL

Optional.

Re-read your new moon commitment. Name out loud the one action you're taking today.

JOURNAL PROMPT

What's the smallest version of the work I can do today?

PHASE THREE

First Quarter.

COMMIT • ACT • DECIDE

Half light, half dark. This is the decision phase. Resistance shows up here disguised as logic — not enough time, not the right moment, not the right approach.

The question isn't whether you're ready. The question is whether you're willing to move anyway.

THE ACTION

Name one decision you've been sitting on. Make it today. A real decision — not “I'll think about it.” A move that takes effort to undo.

MINI RITUAL

Optional.

Write the resistance story you've been telling yourself. Then write the counter-move. Take it.

JOURNAL PROMPT

Where am I hesitating? What would I do if I weren't afraid of getting it wrong?

PHASE FOUR

☾ Waxing Gibbous.

REFINE • ADJUST • TRUST

The moon is almost full. Energy is building, but it isn't peak yet. This is the refinement phase — not the perfection phase.

You've done the reps. Now look at what's working and what isn't.

THE ACTION

Review your commitment honestly. Is the standard you set the right one? If not, adjust it once. Then keep going.

MINI RITUAL

Optional.

Write one sentence of honest evaluation. What's holding? What's slipping? What's one adjustment to make this week?

JOURNAL PROMPT

What's working? What needs one small adjustment?

PHASE FIVE

○ Full Moon.

EVALUATE • RELEASE • AUDIT

Peak. Maximum visibility. This is the evaluation point of the cycle — and it's the one most people skip.

You set a standard at the new moon. Two weeks later, the truth is in. Did you hold it? Where did it crack? What pressure was present in the moments it broke?

This isn't self-criticism. It's data. You can't fix what you don't honestly track.

THE ACTION

Write three sentences. What held this cycle. What cracked. What you're carrying into the next two weeks (or what you're leaving here).

MINI RITUAL

Optional.

Stand outside or by a window. Read your evaluation aloud. Don't perform feelings — just say what's true.

JOURNAL PROMPT

What did this cycle show me? What am I done carrying?

PHASE SIX

◐ Waning Gibbous.

SHARE • INTEGRATE • GIVE

The moon begins to pull back. So does the cycle. This phase is about integration — letting the lessons settle while there's still energy to share them.

Share what you've been given. Receive what's offered. Both keep you in the rhythm.

THE ACTION

Tell one person — partner, friend, journal — what this cycle taught you. Or pass along a resource that helped you to someone who'd use it.

MINI RITUAL

Optional.

Accept one offered thing graciously this week. Help. Rest. A compliment. A meal. Don't deflect.

JOURNAL PROMPT

What did this cycle reveal? What can I share or receive without resistance?

PHASE SEVEN

Last Quarter.

CLEAR • CUT • FORGIVE

The light is pulling back fast. Time to actively clear what no longer belongs — in your schedule, your space, your head.

Release isn't passive here. It's a decision.

THE ACTION

Identify one thing to remove this week. A standing meeting that's no longer useful. A subscription you forgot you had. A draft email you've been meaning to send. Cut it.

MINI RITUAL

Optional.

Clear one physical surface — a drawer, a desk, a corner of your closet. Outer mirrors inner.

JOURNAL PROMPT

What am I done carrying? What gets cut this week?

PHASE EIGHT

○ Waning Crescent.

REST • RESTORE • PREPARE

The moon is nearly gone. This is the most underrated phase of the cycle — the deep exhale before the next beginning.

Rest is not the reward at the end. Rest is part of the work. Without it, the next cycle starts depleted, and the compound breaks.

THE ACTION

Cancel or defer one thing this week that doesn't need to happen now. Replace it with actual rest — not productive rest. Real rest.

MINI RITUAL

Optional.

Write one sentence about how you want to feel at the next new moon. Then put the guide down until then.

JOURNAL PROMPT

What do I need more of right now? What am I ready to release before the next cycle begins?

AT-A-GLANCE REFERENCE

The eight phases. One screen.

Save this. Screenshot it. Keep it close.

●	New Moon	BEGIN	Write one commitment for the cycle.
◐	Waxing Crescent	MOVE	Take one small action today.
◑	First Quarter	COMMIT	Make a decision you've been sitting on.
◒	Waxing Gibbous	REFINE	Adjust the standard once. Keep going.
◯	Full Moon	EVALUATE	Honest audit: what held, what cracked.
◓	Waning Gibbous	INTEGRATE	Share or receive without resistance.
◔	Last Quarter	CLEAR	Cut one thing this week.
◕	Waning Crescent	REST	Defer one thing. Take real rest.

The phases repeat every 28 days. You're not starting over each time — you're stacking another cycle of compound work on the last one.

WHAT'S NEXT

The Lunar Alignment Quick Start Guide.

THIS IS WHERE YOU START.

You've just learned the cycle—what each phase is for and how to work with it.

Enough to try it.

Enough to feel the shift.

This guide is the overview.

The system is what makes it stick.

The Lunar Alignment Starter Kit

Run your first real cycles—without guessing.

Monthly tracker. Phase prompts. Evaluation pages.

The structure is already built. You just follow it.

This is where most people stop reading... and actually start doing.

The Lunar Alignment Planner

A full year of cycles—designed to hold.

Weekly check-ins. Built-in evaluations.

A repeatable system that doesn't fall apart when life gets busy.

Because motivation drops. This is what replaces it.

You can use the Quick Start Guide on its own.

The Starter Kit makes it easier.

The Planner makes it consistent.

Most people move into the Starter Kit within one cycle. The Planner within three.

Not because they “should.” Because they feel the difference.
